Surgical drapes and packs

The three-layers of protection in Tiburon® surgical drapes control the potentially infectious fluids inherent in every procedure.

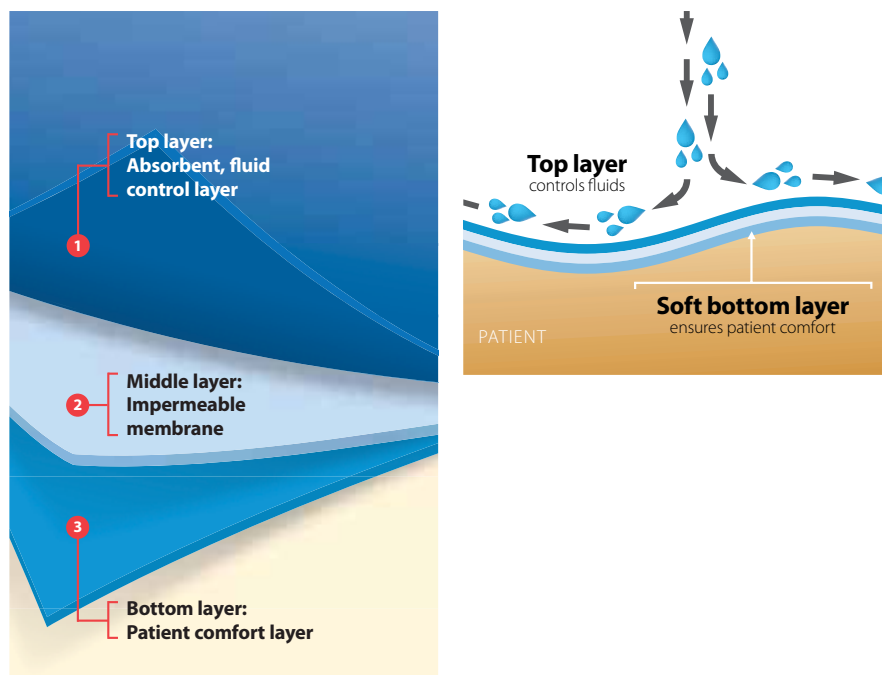

- The top layer works by absorbing fluids rather than repelling them, containing them on the spot.
- The middle layer is reinforced with our proprietary advanced Strike-Through Barrier Technology, which makes the drape strong and impervious.
- A soft bottom layer ensures patient comfort and provides additional strength.

Provide the critical recommended protection against blood and viral penetration.

According to the CDC 1999 Guidelines for Prevention of Surgical Site Infection<sup>1</sup>, surgical drapes should be impervious to both blood and viral penetration. Our advanced proprietary three-layer technology allows Tiburon® to pass both these stringent industry tests for blood and viral penetration, ASTM F1670 and ASTM F1671.

Control runoff.

The top layer controls fluids, providing quicker room turnover time and an overall safer work environment.

RoyalSilk®

The most comfortable surgical gown available.<sup>1</sup>

Astound®

Astound® is the #1 choice of industry professionals worldwide.

What will you be wearing?

It's important to choose the right gown for the right procedure. Clinicians and surgeons should begin the surgical gown selection process by answering the following four questions to determine the appropriate level of protection:

- What type of procedure is being performed?
- How long will the procedure last?
- How much fluid will be present during the case?
- What is the clinician's role in the procedure?<sup>2</sup>

Least protective

Most protective

AAMI levels

In an effort to help protect healthcare workers, all surgical gowns are categorized by a barrier performance level which is designated by the AAMI and based on Standard PB70:2003.

Cardinal Health only manufactures AAMI level 3 and level 4 surgical gowns.

Surgical Drapes and Packs

Tiburon® surgical drapes are engineered to pass the industry standard tests that measure fluid and synthetic viral penetration, which help provide the maximum in clinician and patient safety. They are resistant to abrasion and puncture, yet their flexible, cloth-like properties allow them to drape naturally, following the contours of the patient.

The impervious structure of Tiburon® surgical drapes can help reduce the occurrence of strikethrough, which creates a pathway for microorganisms, that can lead to contamination and infection. In addition, the absorbent top layer can effectively hold and disperse fluid away from the patient.

Classified as a Level 4 device under the AAMI guidelines for barrier performance, Tiburon® surgical drapes provide the highest level of protection available in a surgical drape.<sup>1</sup> Tiburon® fabric also passes the even more stringent industry test for viral penetration, ASTM F1671.<sup>1</sup>
